

New Window Proposal for BUUF:

May 30, 2018

The aluminum, slider windows in the BUUF Fellowship building have reached the end of their useful life. They are leaky, unattractive, energy siphons.

Fortunately, it will be quite easy (4 volunteers working for two days) to replace the 11 windows for about 350.00 dollars a piece, (I have removed a window, checked prices with a supplier, and devised a method for installation with no modification of the interior window trim.)

I suggest we replace our windows this summer.

Jim McConnell

President's note: A bequest from Gene and Heartha Whitlow was earlier earmarked for window replacement at a cost of approximately $11,000. The project was not started because it was deemed too expensive. This do-it-yourself project, at a cost of about $4000, is just what we were waiting for.
